AMERICANS TAKING FISH FROM NORTHERN LAKES BY CARLOADS

UNITED STATES FIRMS ARE MAKING BIG PROFITS ON INDUSTRY IN FAR NORTHERN WATERS SAYS AGENT FOR ONE OF THE COMPANIES

Hundreds of carloads of the best fish obtainable in Canada, are being taken out of the five lakes in Northern Alberta and Saskatchewan, by big American firms, according to S. Leonard Butler, who has just returned from the north. These fish are disposed of in the markets of Chicago, New York, and other points across the line.

After spending the past winter in the rivers below zero weather on the lakes and 78 below in the ice in the Lake Superior, in the northern Saskatchewan, just across the Alberta border, Mr. Butler, who was taking out fish for an American firm, has just returned from the north, and is a guest at the Royal George today.

That the American firms are making huge profits out of it in industry that promises to develop huge proportions within the next few years, in the north, is the statement of a prominent dealer, who is thoroughly acquainted with the fishing industry as it is now, in Northern Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Mr. Butler has no exact estimate of the number of carloads of the fish taken out of the Lake Superior during the past winter, but he estimates that it totals up in the hundreds. Sixty of the lakes, he states, are rapidly being depleted of fish by the wholesale operations of the American firms, but there are lakes he states which have

Fisher, of the Edmonton board of trade, and tentatively organized a few days ago at a meeting of board of trade secretaries from district towns, is being taken up enthusiastically by all the towns who have up-to-date sent in applications for membership in the league.

It is probable that before this week is out, all the towns in the district from Red Deer on the south, Vermilion on the east, and Edmonton on the west will have sent in applications for membership. The effort of the league are to be bent towards raising the sum of $16,000 for public purposes.

It is expected that the organization will be completed in a few weeks.

Contracts for the subdividing of another two million acres or more of homestead lands in the country north of Edmonton, which will supply a season's work for a big army of Dominion land surveyors, will be awarded within the next week or two, by the department of surveys of the Dominion government. Surveyors who take their headquarters in Edmonton, and who anticipate receiving contracts this spring, expect to be notified of these within the next two weeks.

This year's contracts for homestead land, will, it is expected, require the services of 20 or 25 Dominion land surveyors. All of these, as was the case last year, will be in Edmonton, and will be in the city shortly after the contracts are let, and for two months following, a stream of survey parties will be passing through the city bound for the north country.

Last year an army of 20 surveyors did not homestead lands north of Edmonton totalling about 2,000,000 acres. This year's contracts will total

The industrial committee together with the commissioners will interview Cyrus Eaton, representing the International Heating and Lighting Company, with respect to whether or not he is prepared to supply the city with gas at a price cheaper than that quoted, namely $1.62.

The industrial committee, commissioners and Mr. Eaton held a long conference this morning at which the prices paid for gas in other cities on the continent were taken up. These prices range from a minimum of 82.25 per 1000 feet, depending upon the quantity consumed, and the price for heating which it is used, the gas for heating

ENGINEER NEARLY DROWNED IN RIVER

Young, of City Engineering Department, Has Narrow Escape This Morning.

While running a trial line for the east end bridge on the river this morning, C. E. Young, of the city engineering department, had a narrow escape from drowning, and was only rescued after considerable difficulty by P. E. McMahon.

Young had started to walk across the river when he fell into a hole in the soft ice, and was submerged in the icy water to his chin. He was helpless in the water, and began to sink, when McMahon, who was nearby, noticed his predicament.

McMahon crawled out on his hands and knees to the spot where Young was holding onto the ice, and after difficulty succeeded in pulling Young out of the hole. Young was badly shaken, but his home, where he was looked after, he was none the worse for his chilly ducking.

SCARLET FEVER IN WESTERN TIE CAMPS

That some medical supervision of the tie camps along the line of railroad construction west of the city, is desirable in the interests of the public health of Edmonton and district, would appear to be indicated by the experience of the tie camps in the past few days, with scarlet fever let fever sent in from Ross' camp, near to mile 42 west of Edson.

It was one of a line of about twenty men who are engaged in the camp during the winter, but for whom medical attention is provided during these months. About the middle of last week, Eddy was seized with illness, a severe cold, the case was diagnosed by the laymen who rendered him assistance, and he was packed off in an ordinary passenger car to Edmonton, where he died.

NO LABORERS COME FROM SPOKANE

Report That Railway Labor Being Brought From Buteau Plague Centre, is Emphatically Denied.

A report which was alarming in its nature, in view of the fact that the bubonic plague, that most dread disease, had broken out in Spokane, was flatly refuted in the city this morning, that railway contractors were shipping men from Spokane for construction work, and that the outbreak of the plague might in some way affect Edmonton.

This was emphatically denied this morning by the local agents of Poley, Welsh and Stewart, who were reported to be bringing men from Spokane.

Not one man will be brought from Spokane this summer for construction work by Poley, Welsh and Stewart. This firm is securing nearly all of its men from Winnipeg.

Mr. Lawton stated to the Capital that he had received a report from Medicine Hat within the past few days, stating that a large flock had passed over that city travelling north, on February 24th in the midst of a snow storm.

Mr. Lawton has received similar reports, just about this time of the year, for the past few years. This is not an unusual time of the year for the geese to travel north. It is therefore expected that about February 24th that I get reports from the south telling me of the geese coming north.

CHINA FEARS WAR

Stated That Russians Are Making Preparations to Occupy Manchuria.

Peking, Mar. 6.—The fear of Russian aggression is increasing here. The Chinese newspapers are full of reports published in the Russian newspapers greatly exaggerate the dangers from the place. Many of the highest Chinese fear a campaign designed to alarm Europe and justify military occupation. Despatches from Harbin state that Russian military circles are advancing occupation.

The Vladivostok newspapers print reports of the danger of a Russian rising, but the Chinese government emphatically denies the possibility of such a thing, saying that the culture country is under control.

Mr. Sloan who has been in the east on a private business, does not expect any disaster to the fruit growing industry of the Canadian Pacific coast. "The orchards in British Columbia are not fully developed," he said, "and it will take them about five years to reach the full producing stage, but the demand on the prairies will extend the supply."

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, Mar. 6.—Although the temperatures are still rather uncomfortably chilly and raw, the spring season is approaching with most strides. The big fashion shops in the downtown districts are making line displays of spring and summer goods and styles and are giving the devotees of fashion the first most delightful glimpses of the novelties of the coming season. There are scores of most charming frocks in linen, muslin, summer silks, voile, white serge and in a host of other materials suitable for spring and summer wear, though some light weight fabrics many of the new models might as appropriately be worn no later.

Nothing seems to threaten the kimono or peasant sleeve with extinction and the skirt lines show no change, but one sees a few of the frankly empire and directoire lines that have been noticeable on this side of the water during the winter season and these lines have invaded the realm of the street frocks as they have been before. Even this winter, while most of the waist lines have been raised a trifle the delicate empire character has been lacking in street toilets.

In one of the fashionable shops there was shown the other day a pleasant little routine costume in very dark blue voile whose simple straight skirt and waist line just below the bust, where it met the double cape that fell over the shoulders and upper arm to the waist line and was the same length in the back. This cape quite concealed the bodice save in front, where a collar of dull red turned down the capes, leaving a V shape opening where the guimpe of the bodice was revealed. A little of the peasant sleeve with a red cuff showed below the cape, as did a girdle of the red silk, which tide in a square pump bow.

The models in soft sheer materials show skirts falling straight or almost straight from the high waist and slightly flared, but in heavier materials, such as linen, serge, etc., the skirt top is usually fitted a little to the figure curves and usually mounts only a short distance above the normal waist line.

One often finds on a very little above and if a more short waisted effect is desired to produce it with an arrangement of wide belt or giraffe. Where tubing is not to be considered, as in sheer cottons or linens the shaping may be done by small tucks or plaids or the folds may hang straight and full, the very short waist need not present any great difficulties for the laundress.

Judging from the displays in the shops pink will be worn a great deal during the coming summer season. There are many delightful shades of that color, from delicate rose petals to glowing coral. Many of these pink are used, as they were in the winter, to relieve some sombre hues. At one of the shops a toilet was shown that was extremely chic. It consisted of a clinging one-piece frock or tunic of smoky gray net, the skirt of the tunic opening up a little at each side near the bottom, with buttons of the material bordering the opening. Below this, close and simple tunic showed a short skirt of a delicious rose or coral net, untrammelled and just clearing the ground. Stockings were of the coral, exactly matching the skirt, but the same net except the girdle. A tiny cloak of coral and a girdle of the coral bordering the peasant sleeves were the only other touches of the vivid color, and the yoke was partly hidden under a Dutch collar of lace. A gray cordiere served to define the high waist line.

The fine cotton etamines are enjoying a tremendous vogue, both for blouses and for frocks and are made up as simply or as elaborately as one chooses to have them. A little Irish lace enters into most of the designs and hand embroidery is lavishly or scantily applied. Bold embroidery on the etamine is an easy matter and there are many very charming blouse patterns of this material made on the usual plain dress and kimono sleeve line and ornamented around the neck, on the bodice front and on the sleeve bottoms with rather heavy embroidery in Russian or Oriental colors. These patterns are easily put together and if a high collar is desired it is not difficult to fill in the Dutch neck with a tiny guimpe and collar of tulle or other lace insertion.

The bold embroideries are still considerably exploited, particularly in connection with the chiffons and silk etamines. One finds them even on the cotton etamines, but more appropriate to the etamine and linen materials, which French knit embroideries, which reproduce the bead so nearly that only close scrutiny reveals the difference. Experiments in the line of the divided skirt, or rather the trouser skirt, still appear from time to time, though they are not so numerous as in the past. A rather good looking mannish version of the idea which was shown in one of the establishments on Fifth avenue, is part of a black satin frock with severely tailored skirt coat on the smaller order that at first glance seems to be merely one of the straight, narrow, plain models with inverted plaits front and back, but examined more closely shows an opening running a little way from the hem in middle front and back and with the fullness of their graceful appearance and often fact of their opening around the ankles of the wearer.

One of the novelties of the season which comes from Paris is the new shirtwaist blouse, which is being introduced and which promises to become extremely popular because of their graceful appearance and often fact that they make the figure appear more slender. This new addition to woman's dress is made of black satin and is designed for wear with a coat and skirt suit of black and white mixed tweed. The "basque" fastens at the back and has no seams except on the arm and sleeve, the sleeve being cut in one with the basque in the "basque" style. A brand panel down the front gives fullness across the bust, the panel being stitched only part way down. The basque falls just to the top of the hips and is belted at the normal waist line with a narrow belt made of a strip of black velvet ribbon and two strips of narrow silver braid, small steel buttons being sewed on the black velvet. Slanting pockets made of velvet ribbon sewn with steel beads are set on the bust at each side of the front panel and the loose elbow sleeves are finished with black velvet and steel head cuffs. The neck there is a flat white Venice yoke and a little butterfly bow of black satin.

Hats designed for the between-season wear are strongly indicative of what we are to have for the coming spring and summer. Oddity of shape and line is the most noticeable characteristic. In many instances this being quite extraordinary.

HAS GONE WITHOUT A HAT FOR NINE YEARS

Washington, March 6.—"I don't wear a hat now because I've got out of the habit," says Captain Leyburn Shorey, who for nine years has stumped his way around Washington in summer and winter, rain or shine without the customary cranial covering.

His wavy chestnut hair, sweeps almost to his shoulders and is matched by flowing moustache and goatee. Capt. Shorey is chief of the watch for Secretary Nagle's department, and he has strolled in and out of the Washington crowds night and day, in a sear and out, with the air of a sixteenth century gallant and magnificently ignored the whispered questions from the lips of thousands, "Why does that man never wear a hat?"

While he was with the Seventh Cavalry in 1891, the captain's horse fell on him at a parade and crushed his foot. The foot was amputated and until the captain was fitted with a false foot he went around on crutches. On windy days he found it hard to keep his hat on and often either lost the hat altogether or else had to ask a passerby to rescue it. So he began leaving his hat at home and acquired the habit.

DAIRY INSPECTOR SUBMITS REPORT

Majority Show a Marked Improvement Since Last Inspected—New Dairy By-law not in Force.

The report of the dairy inspector for the past month shows considerable change in the standard of milk production in the city, although on the whole there is a gradual improvement in respect to the majority of the dairies in the city. Out of thirty-nine dairies which have been inspected, seven score "good" in respect to all three requisites which have hitherto formed the main features of the score card, twenty-nine score "fair" as to the condition of their stables, twenty "fair" in respect to milk house, and eighteen "fair" as to cleanliness of utensils.

This month for the first time the results of the herd tests are obtainable. Although the dairy by-law with its provision for compulsory application of the tuberculin test has as yet been finally passed upon by the city council, the fact that deductions are made for each cow in a herd which is not subject to the test, forms a strong inducement to the dairymen to allow their herds to be tested for tuberculosis.

Last month only one dairymen allowed his herd to be submitted to the test. In the herd of N. Ross one cow was discovered to be suffering from tuberculosis, and on this account a deduction was made of thirty marks out of a possible maximum of 1,200, leaving the Ross herd with a total percentage score of 99. The deductions in respect to large herds which have not been tested, amounts to 30 marks for each dairyman. In the case of W. L. Grierson, who has 26 cows, the total deduction was 780 marks; in the case of John Dorman, who in respect to every other requisite has one of the best dairies in the district, the deduction was 180 marks, on a herd of 33 cows. Both of these dairymen scored 100 per cent. on their herds, as compared with 99 per cent. by N. Ross, who requested that the test be applied. The animal which reacted was one newly imported into the herd.

The percentage scores for milk house, stable and utensils shows little variation from immediately preceding months. Morris Bros. make the highest score, 91.00 per cent. Scores of other dairymen whose milk house, stable and utensils were in good condition, were as follows: J. Harvie, Woodland dairy, 75.40 per cent.; (butterfat test 2.2 per cent.); N. Ross-Edmonton dairy, 74.40 per cent.; (butterfat test 2.2 per cent.); E. Loughborough, Strathmore, 78.90 per cent.; J. Dorman, 82.80 per cent. (milk house scored "excellent"); F. Herbert, 78.90 per cent.; John A. Davies and Co., Gleyer Bay, 81.85 per cent.

Where the butterfat butterfat test is not given, dairy concerned is not delivering direct to the consumer, but through the medium of one of the large distributing dairies.

The lowest percentage score is that of Geo. W. Wilkinson, with 55.34 per cent. The condition of Mr. Wilkinson's stable was "poor."

Edmonton city dairy, which supplies in the neighborhood of 65 per cent. of the milk consumed of Edmonton, receives a percentage score on its premises of 77.66 per cent., and milk house and utensils are described as "fair."

The percentage of butterfat in Edmonton city dairy milk is 4.2.

ONTARIO STARTS
BRAND NEW SYSTEM OF TAXATION

A brand new system of taxation has been evolved by the Whitney government of Ontario. In that province every bar which takes in more than $40 per day is to be made to pay five per cent of the proceeds to the government. Race tracks are also to be taxed a certain rate per day for every day on which there is racing.

The system of taxation promises big returns for the government, but it has the disadvantage that it makes the government a partner in the liquor and race track business.

India did something very similar to this with regard to the opium business, and while the returns were large it could scarcely be claimed that the scheme of taxation which made the government a party to the industry which wrecked millions of lives was a success. The difference between Ontario and India is that Ontario claims to be civilized.

TAYLOR'S TERMS WILL PROBABLY BE THE LEADERSHIP

Vancouver, which makes a specialty of agitations and real estate booms, has another agitation on its hands at the present time, out of which is looming the possibility of a new departure in Coast politics.

Vancouver seeks to annex South Vancouver. The legislature was asked to pass an enabling act, which it failed to do, and now L. D. Taylor, mayor of Vancouver, challenges any one of the five Vancouver members of the legislature to resign and contest a seat in the city against him.

Taylor says he has never been able to get satisfaction out of either political party and that he would be quite willing to fight it out as a third party man.

It is not at all likely that any member of the legislature will resign to give Taylor a fight, and it is not at all likely that Taylor would be minus the Liberal support if he did get an election. But the fact that he is willing to go to the mat with "Billy" Bowser right at the time when the McBride government is strongest and that he does not ask the assistance of the Kelly machine shows that he feels strong enough to dictate the terms on which he will become part of the fighting force of B. C. Liberalism. Taylor's terms will probably be the leadership.

DR. CLARKE'S FEARS
FOR THE WEST
GROUNDLESS

Dr. Clarke, M.P., tells the Dominion house that an attempt is being made to debauch democracy, pointing to the advertising campaign which is being carried by the manufacturers' association to discredit the reciprocity agreement.

So far as the constituency which he represents and the whole western country is concerned, the member for Red Deer may rest perfectly easy. The western country has long since passed the place where a few pages of stereotyped stuff sent out from an advertising agency can be a factor in the manufacturing of public opinion.

LORIMER INCIDENT
SHOWS U. S. SENATE
HOPELESSLY CORRUPT

There is a saying that a government is usually about as honest as the people who elect it. If this may be taken as axiomatic and the moral standard of the people of United States may be judged from the actions of the senate, then United States must be one of the most hopelessly corrupt and abandoned nations that the world has ever known.

Note the action of the senate on the case of William Lorimer, junior senator for Illinois.

Lorimer was a member of a corrupt ring in Illinois which made a business of betraying the state. The ring sold every kind of a privilege within the power of the legislature and at the end of every session the gross proceeds of their betrayals were divided among the corrupt members. Lorimer secured his election to the United States senate by directly bribing a number of the members of this ring. A quarrel followed about the division of the proceeds. Disclosures were opened up which startled the whole of the United States. It was shown that not only did Lorimer secure his election to the senate by the bribery, but that in practically every senatorial election in Illinois for the past twenty years there has been bribery and corruption. As a result of the disclosures several members of the ring were sent to jail. But Lorimer, nevertheless, went to Washington and took his seat in the United States senate.

Lorimer's right to sit was attacked by Beveridge, LaFollett and a number of the insurgents and after a fight lasting about a month the resolution to declare that Lorimer had not been properly elected went to a vote.

The resolution was defeated by 46 to 40. By that vote the United States senate declares, notwithstanding that it is a matter of public record in the criminal annals of Illinois that Lorimer's election was secured by bribery, that Lorimer is acceptable as a senator.

Surely there is not much hope for the country which welcomes into its highest tribunal the briber and corruptionist against whom the proof of guilt is absolutely established.

If the United States senate reflects the moral average of the people of United States, then United States must be hopelessly corrupt.

Horace Archambault.
Hon. Archibald Archambault, judge of the court of appeal of Quebec, was born in L'Assomption, Quebec, March 6, 1857, and received his education at L'Assomption College and Laval University. Soon after leaving the last named institution he was called to the bar and began the practice of law in Montreal. He attained high prominence in the legal profession and in 1882 he was appointed professor of civil and maritime law in Laval University. From 1897 until 1905 Mr. Archambault served as attorney general of the Province of Quebec and in 1908 he was appointed to his present position as a judge of the court of appeal.

WORKS BOTH WAYS.

(Bradford Expositor.)
The men, who, professing, are the most concerned lest reciprocity with the United States should injure the British preference, are the men who shudder most lest Mr. Fielding should, as has been intimated, receive the amount of the preference.

THE FAT MAN'S DEFENCE.

(Vancouver World.)
At the annual dinner of the New England Fat Men's Club, President Quimby sprung this defence of the fat man: "If you consult the criminal records," he said, "you will find that crime decreases in men in proportion with the number of pounds they weigh. Criminals weighing more than 200 pounds are rare. I venture to make the statement that there are no criminals weighing more than 250 pounds. All this has a reason. Corpulence is but the result of a good and honest disposition. Any man who is right-minded and good-tempered will necessarily add flesh."

INTRIGUE AND INTRIGUE.

(Calgary Albertan.)
Far be it from us to boast of ourselves and look abroad and say that the people of our city are better than their neighbors. Far be it from us to say that the people of Edmonton are worse than their neighbors, for that is not just the case. It all depends upon conditions. Edmonton is the capital of a province. It has early become acquainted with the art of making the ways of the lobby, and other conditions that follow in the wake of the legislative sessions. There is no question that in this city, and the result is that Calgary is much more sincere, and its people, if a comparison may be pardoned, straight-forward in public affairs.

For instance, look at this Boulton case. It has aroused factions, disturbed commercial conditions, stirred up strife, and already we begin to hear of things which usually do not follow determined action merely in a municipal council.

At the beginning it was said that Mr. Boulton incurred the displeasure of the members of the council for declining to recommend some deal that certain of the aldermen were putting through for their own personal benefit.

Here we have the atmosphere of the party politician. They've found that the building inspector is charged with condemning a building filled with Boultonites, and the anti-Boultonites attacked another building and passed the vote of approval of the council, which was not expected, much to the surprise of every person. Again we see the mark of the intriguer and that sort of thing.

Nothing like that has ever happened in any other city. When we wanted to dismiss a public official, he went, and that was the end of it.

And the meaning of it is that the presence of a provincial capital is not always an unmixed blessing, particularly when such capital becomes the home of political hangers-on of low degree, and men who have an idea that they are celebrated intriguers and that sort of thing.

TRUE STORY OF AN ONTARIO PIONEER

How He Built Up a Home on What Was Then a Vast Unsettled Tract.

Too few records have been preserved of the experiences of the pioneers of Ontario. Many of their descendants, involved in the complexities of modern life and enjoying the comforts of these latter days, know nothing of the struggles, hardships, and heroisms of those fine, sturdy men and women who "towed out for themselves" the first homes in the Province. Here in brief is the story of one of these settlers:

In the year 1828 John Wedrich was born in Yorkshire, England, and at the age of twenty-three was married to Rachel E. Shipley. Having spent a week with their friends, they set sail for America, and after a rough voyage of six weeks and three days on the ocean, landed at New York, then came to muddy little York, now the city of Toronto. Soon after (says Mr. Wedrich's daughter, Mrs. Alex. McGowan, in telling the story, in the Farmer's Advocate), they applied to the land agent for work, a kindhearted Scotchman came and took them to Scarborough, where they lived for two years.

Hearing of free land in Osprey township, Simcoe County, my father and another man went by the stage to Barrie, taking with them an axe, a pair of blankets, half bag of food, a flint and some steel, and a red wax candle; as they had to walk about fifty miles, this was all they could carry. When the sun began to set, and on the west, they would start to gather wood for the night, and make shelter, then call up dry leaves and strike the flint and steel to start their fire, keeping watch while the other slept. More than once they saw the eyes of some wild animal staring at them, and heard the sticks breaking as it walked away. As soon as the sun was up to guide them, they would press on farther into the forest. At last they came to a concession blaze and a creek, and being tired and hungry, they decided to go no farther. While the other man was building a fire, as was father's axe, he started to build his shanty. It was made ten feet by twelve, for they had to live in the logs. He cut hemlock the right length, split and peeled them for the roof. He split up cedar, and with leatherwood bark, bound it and hung it on for a door. He then carried stones for a fireplace and cleared the creek with a piece of the bark. Thus three days were spent, and, as their provisions were getting low, he went around three hundred acres, chopped off the bark from the trees at intervals, and wrote his name with the pencil. Then they gathered up their traps, and started back. It was near midnight when they got to Stayner, and two days later, footsore and hungry, they landed home.

The next winter father bought a yoke of oxen, one cow, a sleigh, a 1-inch and 2-inch auger, two axes, and what household goods the oxen could draw. With my mother and a half-sister, they started again for the wilderness. The journey took three days. They stayed at Barrie and Stayner. From the latter point there was only the blaze to go by, and the sleigh upset six times, throwing them into the snow. Mother often told us how thankful she was when father said: "Yonder is the shanty!" He soon made a roaring fire, carried in their two boxes for a table, and the ox yoke for a seat. Thus the first white woman as far as we know, after her first supper in Osprey. Father then cut down some browse for the cattle, led them to the sleigh at the door, and started to make a bedstead by laying logs in the logs, using a crutch stick for the third post, sharpening the other end and driving it down into the mud floor. Cedar branches formed the mattress; on these were put their blankets, and they were soon fast asleep. But when they awoke in the morning the baby was sick, and with all that distance between them and a doctor! Mother had only a bottle of castor oil, one of goose oil, and water. For three days she sat up wringing out flannels and laying them around the baby's neck and breast, or bathing her feet in hot water, anxiously asking God to spare her child. Thus she gained her first experience in nursing.

After two months, father had to go back to Barrie for flour and provisions; father went then ten cents a pound, and sugar fifteen. As the snow was deep, he was four days away, and mother's heart, loaded with joy when the wheels resumed with his singing away in the distance. Father had to stop every day to get a full supply of seedling, and mother had to take baby and go away out from the cabin, for for a two night fall on the shanty. Father would draw the fallen felled trees into heaps and set fire to them, and often they had to stay all night to keep the fire from spreading into the bush. Father made a plough, all of wood, and as he had not time to make a harrow, he used the top of a small elm tree for a drag the first year. Later he made a drag by boring two-inch holes through a crutch stick, and making elm pegs and driving them in for harrow teeth. He took bent saplings for runners, and made a "plunger" for drawing in the grain, which was all cut with the sickle. He sharpened the end of a small pole, put on a cross-piece about two feet long; drove pegs in, and mother raked with it, and bound the grain. They made a stack and covered it with heavy muslin hay, and in the winter he made a flat with two sticks tied together with leatherwood bark, and every evening would thresh out some of the wheat on the shanty floor by the light of the fire.

My mother was a year and two months without seeing a white woman, but one day in the summer two white women came, and they were so glad to see them, she was so pleased to see them, she opened the door, and when they turned to fly, but stopped as she held up her baby, smiled and beckoned to them. They came part way back. She cut a piece of bread, held it out to them, but they would not let their baby eat it until she fed a piece of it to her own child. They came again and brought some baskets with them. They would hold them out to mother, point at their mouths, and make a mournful sound to tell her they wanted bread, for which they gave her a basket. They picked up some cow-cabbage and ate it; the youngest ran down to the creek, got some water-drops, came back, and gave some to the papoose, and ate some herself. Then they came another day, and brought two men carrying guns; but when mother and father went out they lifted them off their shoulders, and laid them across their feet, which meant peace. The old woman carried their baby to mother. She took it in her arms and gave it a kiss, and that seemed to please them greatly, for, throw-

STRAY TOPICS FROM GREATER NEW YORK

Restaurant Keepers' Circumvent Liquor Laws—Police Enforce "Concealed Weapons' Law.

New York, Mar. 6.—Some persons seem to have a most peculiar sense of humor and to be willing to go to any lengths to gratify their perverted notion of humor. There is a woman in Brooklyn who advertised under the name of Mrs. Arnold, in Seattle papers, saying that she was a widow and willing to get married again. She gave a certain address in New York and soon scores of letters from respectable men in Seattle and other places in the state of Washington, began to arrive at the address given by the alleged widow. She sent her sister to the address and had her bring the accumulated letters to her home in Brooklyn, where the two women have the time of their lives, reading the proposals, many of whom were accompanied by the photographs of the writers. It is stated that in answer to her advertisement the bogus widow received 160 proposals within one single week.

The restaurant keepers of New York filed suit at all kinds of more or less ingenious schemes to circumvent the law which prohibits them from selling any liquor between the hours of 1 and 5 a.m. In the recent case against Charles E. Hector, the noted caterer, for alleged violation of the liquor law, some interesting facts in that respect were brought out, involving, among other things, the question as to the number of drinks contained in a gallon of whiskey. Mr. Hector, the proprietor, said that his plan of selling whiskey was to make each table purchase one right, before 1 a.m., a bottle containing one-fifth of a gallon of whiskey. This bottle had fifteen marks on its side, each representing a drink. At five o'clock if there should be any left in the bottle, the party received a rebate. It became clear from that statement that at the rate of fifteen drinks to one-fifth of a gallon, there must be 75 drinks in a gallon of whiskey. Of course, that holds good only in the Hector establishments.

The suffragettes of New York are greatly disappointed over the failure of their latest advertising scheme. They had planned to send up from their headquarters hundreds of toy balloons with appropriate inscriptions, on St. Valentine's day, but fate was against them. Whether the balloons were not blown in the proper kind of gas, or whether the inscription "Votes for Women," made them too heavy, is not clear. At all events, however, the balloons refused to rise, even high enough to pass over the spite fences with which the owners of the lots adjoining the suffragette headquarters have separated their property from that of their unwelcome neighbors. Only the fact that the story got into the papers concerning the suffragettes and the carrying arms of some sort, usually guns, daggers, or slingshots. In view of this fact, it is not surprising in the minds of the police authorities that the police are committed in this city. The police authorities intend to continue these raids with the greatest severity, and persistence and it is hoped that the raids will materially diminish the number of "run totes" in New York.

Some time ago a man having wife and four children, disappeared from his home and for weeks no trace of him could be found. Then the body of a man was fished out of the waters of the Kill von Kull, corresponding, in a general way, with the description of the missing man. The wife, and the children, not to mention several other members of the family, identified the body as that of the missing head of the family and with great alacrity the settlement with the insurance company and the arrangements with the key in the prohibited letters, were completed. Every thing was ready for the funeral the other day, when the missing man, who had learned of the case, through the newspapers, appeared upon the scene and stopped all further proceedings with the funeral. He had some difficulty in convincing his wife and the rest of the family that he was really alive and the person he claimed to be, but he finally succeeded and now the undertaker will have to bear the loss of the beautiful casket and trimmings. Cases of a similar nature are of all too frequent occurrence and justify the suspicion that the families of missing men are altogether too eager to collect the life insurance that they are not very scrupulous in their identifications. Some of the insurance companies advocate a law which would put a stop to fraudulent identifications.

While Joseph Swander, of Nankers, was on his way home late the other night, he was held up by three foot-pads, one of whom pointed a gun at him. Swander obeyed, but at the same time grasped the wrist of the man's pistol hand, and wrenched the weapon from him. The highwaymen then took to their heels, but Swander gave chase and succeeded in capturing one of the men, whom he turned over to the police. If there were a few more men like Swander in this town there would be a marked decrease in the number of hold-ups in the streets of New York.

NEW DAIRY BY-LAW

BEST ON CONTINENT

The new dairy by-law, with its elaborate tests to safeguard the Edmonton milk supply, was described by Dr. Park, a member of the local board of health, as perhaps the best in the American continent. Dr. Park stated, in conversation with The Capital this morning that the most careful consideration had been given to the by-law in existence in other communities when the Edmonton by-law was under consideration, and the new by-law in his opinion could not be excelled by any other of which he had knowledge.

The new by-law, with provision for compulsory application of the tuberculin test, has to be passed by the city council, before whom it will come for consideration in the course of the next few weeks.

DISTRICT COURT

At the criminal court to be held in Edmonton on March 21, Judge Taylor will try the following cases:

Box vs. Lamourang, obtaining money ($145) under false pretenses. The complaint was laid by Walter Johnson, and the offence alleged to have been committed in connection with a horse deal.

Box vs. Thomas, forger.
Box vs. Violet Snow, theft of rings.
Box vs. Hingley, theft of a time check.

DISTRICT COURT.

This morning Judge Taylor handed down judgment in the case of McDougall vs. Baldwin, in which John McDougall brought action to recover the sum of $28 alleged to be due rental for a shack, dismissing the action. It was heard that the defendant had given notice of his intention to leave, the sum which the plaintiff sought to recover not having become due until after the term of this notice had expired.

EDMONTON IRISH ASSOCIATION

EXCELLENT ADVERTISEMENT FOR CENTRAL ALBERTA

Huge Transparency of farm near Edmonton on Display in Canadian Offices, London, England.

Hung in the windows of the Canadian government immigration offices, in Charing Cross, London, Eng., is for view of the thousands of passersby of all nationalities that through Charing Cross every day, there is to be seen a huge transparency of the noted "Long Lake Farm" near Edmonton. The transparency, with several hundred cable power of electric lights behind it, cost over $60 to manufacture, and it makes a striking representation of the big wheat field on Long Lake farm, during harvest.

The picture, enlarged, was presented to J. Obed Smith, commissioner of immigration in London, by Chas. S. Hotchkiss, chief publicity commissioner of Alberta. Mr. Hotchkiss, last night requested word from Smith that he had made a transparency of the picture.

An enlargement of the picture, handsomely mounted and framed has also been presented to Lord Strathcona, High Commissioner for Canada in London, together with an enlargement of the handsome picture of Alice Brice's big farm on the Peace River.

These pictures are being displayed in the exhibit and publicity offices of the Canadian Pacific railway in Philadelphia.

The Doctor's Question

MUCH SICKNESS DUE TO BOWEL DISORDERS.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 per cent. of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Resall Ordinaries are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce a marked result.

Resall Ordinaries are eaten like candy, they act gently, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, grip, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c and 50c. Sold only at our store—The Resall Store, A. Archibald.
